Sell your independent release through Trad&Now
Trad&Now is not just a magazine - it's a platform for all those who support, promote and cherish the folk arts.
If you have produced a contemporary or traditional folk, blues, roots, alternative, bluegrass or world music, poetry or dance recording or book that would be of interest to Trad&Now readers, you can sell it on-line or in the pages of the Trad&Now magazine. Your product will be sold under agreement on a commission basis that includes a guarantee of payment.
We are not looking for exclusivity, only to be an additional supplier of your product.
A special 25% discount off our advertising rates is offered to help suppliers promote their products.

Here's how it works

- Recordings and Books are distributed directly from the Trad&Now shopfront or from a stand at Festivals and therefore we require to have some stock on hand.
- You need to send us 5 to 10 copies of your CD, DVD or Book along with this completed and signed consignment form.
- Please also send us a copy for review if you haven't organised one yourself. Trad&Now will give preference to its own suppliers when selecting reviews for publication.
- Trad&Now will advertise your product in our catalogues, on the web site and in the magazine.
- If there is no conflict of interest to the organisers or performers, we will also sell your CD or Book at the Trad&Now stand at selected festivals throughout Australia.
- Buyers will place orders directly with Trad&Now and we will supply the product.
- When stock is low and needs replenishment, Trad&Now will send you a payment for stock sold less commission of 40% together with a reconciliation statement.
- You will need to supply more stock or advise Trad&Now if unable to do so.
- If you need stock returned, Trad&Now will do so and will include a cheque and a reconciliation with the return. Postage costs will be deducted from the final payment for that product
